Will Dixie Botanicals work for me?

Each individual is unique and has different wellness goals they are interested in addressing though the consumption and application of the Dixie Botanicals products. While we are not medical professionals and cannot make medical claims, the feedback we have received from a variety of patients and consumers alike has been overwhelmingly positive. As with any health condition, we also encourage you to confer with your physician or healthcare practitioner about Dixie Botanicals supplements, and develop the most appropriate health and wellness regimen for your specific needs.

Is the primary plant constituent in Dixie Botanicals synthetic?

No. Dixie Botanicals Hemp Oil Wellness Products are derived from a Hemp stalk and seed extract. We are proud to offer this form of high quality hemp oil that is naturally grown, and not chemically synthesized in a lab, with naturally-occurring CBDs.

Dixie Botanicals Science Director, Tamar Wise, elaborates:

“The hemp oil we use is biologically created in hemp plants and our methodology isolates and extracts it. We then infuse this hemp oil with naturally-occurring plant constituent into our line of hemp products.”

Do these products contain CBD?

We have revised our labels for our small containers, and these small labels do not have enough room for the Supplement Facts box. Thus, we are using a provision in the FDA supplement labeling regulations for streamlined labels. But then we include the full Supplement Facts box—which includes the precise amount of CBDs per serving of each supplement—upon request, and in this website. Please see these Facts boxes under the Tab “Product Descriptions.” Also, please see the attached lab tests for confirmation.

Dixie Botanicals Hemp Oil Wellness Products are labeled, marketed, and sold as dietary supplements (sometimes called food supplements or “nutraceuticals”). We are not medical professionals; our products are not drugs; and thus we are unable to offer “dose” or “dosing” recommendations. We ask that you work with your individual medical professional to determine the appropriate amounts for your health and wellness goals.

Do you lab test your products?

All of our products are tested multiple times during the manufacturing process, using both traditional ISO 17 025 chemical testing facilities.

Are Dixie Botanical products legal?

Our hemp oil-derived wellness products are legal to consume both here in the U.S. and in many countries abroad. The FDA considers hemp oil as a dietary supplement product and our parent company MJNA imports its naturally-derived raw hemp oil under approved tariff codes to its FDA- registered and GMP-certified facility in the U.S. Dixie Botanicals’ parent company, Medical Marijuana, Inc., MJNA, is a publicly traded company (see link <http://www.otcmarkets.com/stock/MJNA/quote>) that does not grow, sell or distribute any substances in ways that violate United States Law or the Controlled Substance Act.

Will Dixie Botanicals make me feel “high”?

We are not aware of any psychotropic effects associated with using these hemp oil supplement products. The complete product line of Dixie Botanicals is consistently tested throughout the formulation and manufacturing process to ensure that the products meet all local, state and Federal laws, regulations, and guidelines. The supplements contain no drug ingredients.

Will I pass a drug test?

The hemp oil in our product contains CBD which is a legal cannabinoid from hemp, and will show up in a drug test (5/8 or 10 panel screen). We have no way of knowing if you will or will not pass a drug test as there are too many variables to know for sure

A separate test just for THC can be administered. The facts are that our supplement contains under .3% of THC, and the general rule is that 1%. But some of these drug tests are very sensitive. And if a consumer or employee fails the initial screening test, then follow-up tests may be mandatory.

Are Dixie Botanicals products made in the USA?

Yes, all Dixie Botanicals products are manufactured in our state of the art production facility located in Phoenix, Arizona. We are proud to be a company that not only produces an innovative line of hemp oil products, but also does so in the U.S.

Why are your products so expensive?

Dixie Botanicals is a hemp oil wellness line of products using both the stalk and the seed of the Hemp plant. It represents a significant capital investment of millions of dollars to bring these products to the Continental U.S. Red Dice Holdings has a staff of over 25 individuals, including a team of scientists, engineers and clinical herbalists based in the U.S. working to formulate, develop and produce Dixie Botanicals. The technology is new and by most standards, revolutionary. All of these components, including strict chemical analysis testing regimens provided by a certified ISO 17-025 testing facility, directly impact the cost to produce Dixie Botanicals products. We are committed to providing the highest quality products to our customers: efficacy and safety balanced with integrity and sustainability.

Will Dixie Botanicals products ever be available in grocery and health food stores?

We are currently in discussion with several major retail chains and hope to offer Dixie Botanicals through those retail partners soon.
